Natolin

MA in European Interdisciplinary Studies:
The Internal and External Dimensions of the European Union
at the Natolin Campus in Warsaw

Campus in Warsaw

The College of Europe, with its two campuses (Bruges, founded in 1949 and Natolin in 1992), is the oldest and most prestigious institute of postgraduate European Union studies. It attracts students from all over the world who are seeking a truly multicultural experience and an international career.

The Natolin campus is located in Warsaw, the capital of one of the largest EU member states in East Central Europe. It was established in 1992 in anticipation of the eastern enlargement of the EU, and today it specialises in the study of new developments in the European Union, its relations with its nearest neighbours and recent European History.

Its students all study a unique interdisciplinary MA programme, which consists of courses in EU politics, law, history and economics and offers further specialisations depending on students' preferences.

In addition, it is home to the European Neighbourhood Policy Chair and the European Civilisation Chair. This makes it particularly attractive to students wishing to specialise in the EU's external relations in its neighbourhood as well as its historical and cultural development.

Our offer

- » One-year postgraduate further Master's degree in European Interdisciplinary Studies (fully accredited)
